ATTENDING VETERINARIAN AND ADEQUATE VETERINARY CARE (DEALERS AND EXHIBITORS).

****

A female Shih Tzu, microchip #0A01262125, was observed by the inspectors scratching and shaking her head repeatedly. Upon closer observation the inspectors noted that both of her inside ear flaps had thickened leather like appearance. The right ear also had a yellowish discharge coming from the canal area. The neck and chest area of this dog has a thickened and leather like appearance. When the inspector exposed the folded skin on the neck and chest, the skin had patches of yellowish dried crusted material. The inspector also noted this dog had a very prominent yeast like odor emitting from her. This excessive scratching, thickening of the skin, discharge from the ears and crusted dried material on the skin could be a medical condition, could cause discomfort, and may be painful. The licensee stated that "This dogs condition has been going on for years but gets worse when it gets a haircut." When the inspector asked when the dog had a haircut the licensee replied that it was about a month ago. When asked if this dog was currently receiving any treatment he replied "No, the dog is better than it usually is". The licensee did say that he did have this dog treated in the past but the only documentation that was found was a statement written by the licensee dated 7/3 which said he had talked to his attending veterinarian about hair growth and was told it would take time. The licensee must have this dog examined by a veterinarian for an appropriate diagnosis and treatment plan. The licensee must document this information and make it available to the inspector upon request. The licensee must ensure that all animals receive adequate care at all times.
